POLICY PROFESSIONAL & RESEARCHER

PROFILE

Civil servant in the policy profession with a keen interest and background in energy. Awarded the BP scholarship for energy/STEM students, and have an MA Energy (1:1) and BA Politics (2:1).

EXPERIENCE

Policy Advisor Oct. 2016 - Present
Policy advisor at the Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy (BEIS). My policy areas include wholesale electricity markets and GB energy codes (both gas and electricity).

My work is wide-ranging and involves constant research, learning, and building of a personal network. The lean nature of my team, and the wide range of areas we cover - from Brexit to BSC - means that I need to be flexible as a worker. This is something that I excel at, given my background.

I recently managed industry relations regarding TSO unbundling, I have written submissions to ministers that were later raised as an example of how best to communicate, and I have helped meet wider corporate goals through setting team objectives and am currently organising work experience.

EDUCATION

MA Energy, European University at St. Petersburg

- First class honours / 4.0 GPA equiv. (ОТЛИЧНО)

BA Politics, Queen's University Belfast

- Upper second class honours / 3.67 GPA equiv.

Ofgem Assistant Policy Manager June 2015 - Oct. 2016

I developed new policy on often technical areas, helped scrutinise new regulations, and used my project management skills to help deliver the administration of a renewable support scheme (the Non-Domestic RHI). I also wrote technical guidance, communicated with scheme participants and industry where special advice was needed, and work with the wider team to plan/deliver communications. Using the Toyota Method, I helped meet KPIs; in once instance I reduced response time by 500%. My performance review described me as 'innovative'.

Editorial positions Sep. 2012 - Present

I have a long history of editorial, research, and copy-editing experience. I co-founded an academic journal - The Queen's Political Review - during my undergraduate degree and worked as a Section Editor; I also worked on outreach which included giving classes on writing to MBA and postgraduate students. During my own postgraduate degree I was the Editor-in-Chief of an energy journal - ENERPO. Presently I manage House Rehomed - an interior design magazine.
